On the weekend of June 25-26, HAM radio enthusiasts from the area are invited to participate in Field Day, a twenty four hour event focused on broadcasting communications and spending time with like minded individuals.

There are also goals around educating individuals on alternate modes of communication, as well as improving already existing skill sets with the technology. Two groups will broadcast stations in two locations: the Columbus Radio Enthusiasts Society (CRES) will be broadcasting station W8ZPF from the southeast corner of Infirmary Mound Park south of Granville on route 37, and the Newark Amateur Radio Association will be broadcasting station N8ARA from the top of Horns Hill north of Newark. The groups will begin setting up Saturday morning and plan to be operational by 2:00 p.m. The events will run through Sunday and are open to the public.
